Civil Action No. _____

COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF,
PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION
AND PERMANENT INJUNCTION

1           1.       This complaint seeks declaratory and injunctive relief to protect the 2 federal rights of Bank of America, N.A., Bank of America, N.A. (USA), Banc of America
 3 Investment Services, Inc. ("BAI"), Banc of America Insurance Services, Inc. ("BAISI"), Wells
 4 Fargo Bank, N.A., Wells Fargo Bank Nevada, N.A., Wells Fargo Insurance, Inc. ("WFII"), and
 5 Wells Fargo Home Mortgage, Inc. ("WFHMI") (collectively "Plaintiffs"),<sup>1</sup> under the Fair Credit
 6 Reporting Act ("FCRA"), 15 U.S.C. § 1681t(b)(2), the National Bank Act ("NBA"), 12 U.S.C.
 7 § 24(Seventh), and the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act ("GLBA"), Pub. L. No. 106-102, 113 Stat.
 8 1338 (codified at 15 U.S.C. § 6701(d)). In this action, Plaintiffs seek injunctive and declaratory 9 relief that will allow them to use information, organize, and operate notwithstanding the 10 Alameda County's recently enacted Ordinance Number 2003-28 ("Alameda County Ordinance" 11 or the "Ordinance"; Exhibit A hereto), which becomes effective September 1, 2003.

12           2.       The Ordinance constrains Plaintiffs from sharing information about their 13 customers among affiliates and with third parties, which assist Plaintiffs in offering their 14 services, contrary to the rights conferred on Plaintiffs by the FCRA, NBA, and GLBA.
 15 Moreover, the database and processing systems that Plaintiff Banks now use to manage the 16 accounts of and provide ATM services for their depositors and loan customers are also used by 17 the Banks' affiliates for similar purposes, as well as for marketing affiliates' products and 18 services to the Banks' depositors and other customers. It would be prohibitively expensive for 19 the Banks to redesign those systems to allow them to be used for account management of 20 Alameda customers, but not by the Banks' affiliates. Accordingly, to comply with the Alameda 21 Ordinance, the Banks would have to establish separate database and processing systems for 22 Alameda customers that do not permit affiliate sharing. While less expensive than redesigning
 23 their current systems, these segregated systems would cost millions of dollars. All of Plaintiffs'

24
 25 <sup>1</sup> Bank of America, N.A. and Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. are collectively hereinafter referred 26 to as "Plaintiff Banks" or "the Banks"; Bank of America, N.A. (USA) and Wells Fargo Bank
 27 Nevada, N.A. are collectively hereinafter referred to as "Credit Card Banks"; BAISI and WFII
 28 are collectively hereinafter referred to as "the Insurance Affiliates."

1 use of customer information is for the purpose of serving customers or allowing affiliates, and in 2 Wells Fargo's case, third-party joint marketing to advertise their services to the Banks'
3 customers.

4 Jurisdiction and Venue

5 3. This action is brought under the Supremacy Clause of the United States
6 Constitution, the FCRA, NBA, GLBA, and 42 U.S.C. § 1983. The Court has jurisdiction over 7 this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331 because it arises under the Constitution and laws of the 8 United States. In addition, jurisdiction is proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1343(a)(3), because 9 Defendants, under color of state law, seek to deprive Plaintiffs of their federal constitutional
10 rights. This Court is authorized to issue a declaratory judgment pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 11 & 2202.

12 4. Venue in this district is proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(1) & (2)
13 because Defendants reside in this district and all of the events and omissions giving rise to this 14 case occurred in this district.

15 Intradistrict Assignment

16 5. Pursuant to Civil Local Rule 3-2(c) and (d), this matter should be 17 assigned to the San Francisco or Oakland Division of this Court because all of the events or 18 omissions giving rise to the claim occurred in Alameda County.

19 Related Cases

20 6. This case is related to Bank of America, N.A. v. City of Daly City, 21 California, Civ. No. C 02-4343 CW, and Bank of America, N.A. v. Contra Costa County,
22 California, Civ. No. C 02-4943 CW. Like those cases, this case involves a municipal ordinance 23 restricting financial institutions' sharing of customer information with affiliates and 24 nonaffiliated third parties. The local laws in those cases and this one are challenged on the same
25 grounds, i.e., that they are preempted by FCRA, GLBA and NBA. Assignment of these actions 26 to different judges may risk inconsistent results and a waste of judicial resources.

16 Alameda County. As such, he is the county official charged with enforcing the municipal code
17 of Alameda County, including the enforcement provisions of the Alameda County Ordinance.

18 The Relevant Federal Statutory and Constitutional Provisions:

19 The Fair Credit Reporting Act

20 20. The FCRA, 15 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq., defines the rights and obligations of 21 banks, financial institutions and other corporations that receive, use, collect or exchange
22 information regarding the creditworthiness of consumers and certain other consumer 23 characteristics. Among other things, the FCRA expressly authorizes such institutions to 24 exchange information with their affiliates regarding their experiences with their customers. For 25 example, the FCRA allows financial institutions and other corporations to share information 26 with affiliates, which they have derived from their dealing with their customers – so-called 27 “experience information” – including information regarding those customers’ “credit 28 worthiness, credit standing, credit capacity, character, general reputation, personal

1 characteristics, or mode of living.” 15 U.S.C. § 1681m(b)(1). Moreover, the FCRA imposes no 2 restrictions on the sharing of other information about customers – such as their names and 3 addresses – that does not relate to creditworthiness or the above-quoted consumer 4 characteristics.

5           21. The FCRA also allows such institutions to share information derived
6 from other sources bearing on creditworthiness or relating to the consumer characteristics listed
7 above – so called “non-experience information,” for example, information derived from credit 8 reports obtained from credit agencies – with their affiliates, provided that the institution gives 9 the consumer notice and the opportunity to “opt out” of such non-experience information
10 sharing before it occurs. The FCRA “opt out” allows a consumer to inform the institution that 11 such “non-experience” information should not be shared by the institution with its affiliated 12 corporate entities. 15 U.S.C. § 1681a(d).

13           22. The FCRA provides that “[n]o requirement or prohibition may be 14 imposed under the laws of any State . . . with respect to the exchange of information among 15 persons affiliated by common ownership or common corporate control . . . .” 15 U.S.C.
16 § 1681t(b)(2). This provision expressly preempts state law that purports to regulate sharing 17 between affiliates of any type of information relating to their customers. Section 1681t of the 18 FCRA further provides that this preemption provision “do[es] not apply to any provision of 19 State law (including any provision of a State constitution) that – (A) is enacted after January 1, 20 2004; (B) states explicitly that the provision is intended to supplement this subchapter [i.e., the 21 FCRA]; and (C) gives greater protection to consumers than is provided under this subchapter 22 [i.e., the FCRA].” 15 U.S.C. § 1681t(d)(2).

23                           The National Bank Act

24           23. National banks are federally-chartered institutions created under,
25 governed, and exercising their authorized powers as granted by the National Bank Act, 12
26 U.S.C. § 21 et seq.

1           24. Under the National Bank Act, the OCC has exclusive regulatory,
2 supervisory, and enforcement authority with respect to national banks' provision of banking
3 services. See 12 U.S.C. §§ 24(Seventh), 484(a).

4           25. Congress has authorized national banks "[t]o exercise . . . all such 5 incidental powers as shall be necessary to carry on the business of banking." 12 U.S.C.
6 § 24(Seventh). These powers under 12 U.S.C. § 24(Seventh) include the authority to advertise 7 and market the national bank's own products and services, as well as those of its affiliates, and 8 to organize in the most efficient and effective form, including undertaking activities through 9 subsidiaries and/or affiliates. See, e.g., 12 C.F.R. §§ 5.34, 5.39. National banks and their 10 subsidiaries may also engage in authorized activities through joint marketing arrangements with 11 nonaffiliated third parties.

12           26. The OCC has promulgated a regulation, 12 C.F.R. § 7.4006, making clear 13 that national banks' operating subsidiaries enjoy the same preemptive protection of the National 14 Bank Act as do their parent national banks.

15                           Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act Privacy Provisions

16           27. Subtitle A of title V of GLBA provides for financial institutions' sharing 17 of nonpublic personal information with affiliates and nonaffiliated third parties. See 15 U.S.C.
18 § 6801 et seq. GLBA imposes no restrictions of information sharing among affiliates.
19 However, GLBA provides that financial institutions may not disclose nonpublic personal 20 information to a nonaffiliated third party unless it provides the customer with notice and an 21 opportunity to "opt out" of such third-party information sharing, 15 U.S.C. § 6802(a) & (b)(1), 22 except sharing with such third parties pursuant to an agreement to market jointly a product or 23 service is not subject to customer opt out. See 15 U.S.C. § 6802(b)(2).

24           28. Subtitle A of title V of GLBA provides that the GLBA "shall [not] be 25 construed to modify, limit, or supersede the operation of the [FCRA]," 15 U.S.C. § 6806, and 26 Subtitle A of title V of GLBA does not purport to affect the operation of the National Bank Act.
27 To the contrary, the savings clause of title V that allows states to provide greater protection to 28

1 consumers than title V of GLBA is limited to “this subchapter,” i.e., title V. 15 U.S.C.
2 § 6807(a).

3           29. The annual notice to the consumer under GLBA must include the 4 “financial institution’s policies and practices with respect to . . . (1) disclosing nonpublic
5 personal information to affiliates and nonaffiliated third parties . . . ; (2) disclosing nonpublic
6 personal information of persons who have ceased to be customers of the financial institution;
7 and (3) protecting the nonpublic personal information of consumers.” 15 U.S.C. § 6803(a). In 8 addition, the notice must contain information “with respect to . . . the categories of persons to 9 whom the information is or may be disclosed,” “the categories of nonpublic personal 10 information collected by the financial institution,” and “the disclosures required” for the 11 customer to “opt out” of “non-experience” information sharing among affiliates contained in the 12 FCRA, as described more fully above in paragraph 21. Id.

13                   Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act Insurance Preemption Provision

14           30. Section 104(d)(2)(A) of title I of GLBA provides that “[i]n accordance 15 with the legal standards for preemption set forth in the decision of the Supreme Court of the 16 United States in Barnett Bank of Marion County, N.A. v. Nelson, 517 U.S. 25 (1996), no State
17 may, by statute, regulation, order, interpretation, or other action, prevent or significantly 18 interfere with the ability of a depository institution, or an affiliate thereof, to engage, directly or 19 indirectly, either by itself or in conjunction with an affiliate or any other person, in any 20 insurance sales, solicitation, or crossmarketing activity.” 15 U.S.C. § 6701(d)(2)(A). Bank of 21 America and Wells Fargo Bank are “depository institutions” within the meaning of 15 U.S.C.
22 § 6701(d)(2)(A), and BAISI and WFII are “affiliates” of depository institutions within the 23 meaning of 15 U.S.C. § 6701(d)(2)(A).

24                   Supremacy Clause of the United States Constitution

25           31. Article VI of the United States Constitution provides that “[t]his 26 Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof . . .
27 shall be the supreme Law of the Land . . . any Thing in the Constitution or Laws of any State to 28 the Contrary notwithstanding.”

The Alameda County Ordinance

32. The Ordinance was adopted after a second reading by the City Council on November 12, 2002. It will become effective on September 1, 2003. Alameda County Ordinance § 2.

33. The Ordinance applies to “financial institutions” “located in the unincorporated areas of Alameda County.” Ordinance §§ 3.70.020(c), 3.70.030(a). Plaintiff Banks with branches in the unincorporated areas of Alameda County are subject to the Ordinance, as are any of their affiliates with offices there.

34. The Ordinance provides that “[a] financial institution located in the unincorporated area of Alameda County shall not disclose confidential consumer information to an affiliate unless the financial institution clearly and conspicuously discloses annually, commencing upon the effective date of this Chapter, to the consumer in writing that the information may be disclosed to an affiliate of the financial institution. Pursuant to this [annual] disclosure[,] the consumer shall be provided an opportunity, before disclosure of information, of 45 days from the date of postmark of the notice to direct that the confidential consumer information not be disclosed to an affiliate [i.e., a consumer ‘opt out’].” Id. § 3.70.040(f). During that 45-day period, there shall be no disclosure of information about the Alameda customer. On its face, the Ordinance requires that the Banks must cease sharing customer information with their affiliates for 45 days each year pending the opt-out opportunity. The imposition of such a restriction on sharing information with affiliates is directly contrary to, and expressly preempted by, the FCRA which provides that “[n]o requirement or prohibition may be imposed under the laws of any State . . . with respect to the exchange of information among persons affiliated by common ownership or common corporate control . . . .” 15 U.S.C. § 1681t(b)(2).

35. The Ordinance also provides that “[a] financial institution located in the unincorporated area of Alameda County shall not disclose to, or share a consumer’s confidential consumer information with, any nonaffiliated third party unless the financial institution has provided written notice to the consumer to whom the confidential consumer information relates

1 and unless the financial institution has obtained a consent acknowledgment signed by the 2 consumer that authorizes the financial institution to disclose or share the confidential consumer
 3 information [i.e., a consumer ‘opt in’].” Alameda County Ordinance § 3.70.030(a); accord id.
 4 at § 3.70.040(e).

5           36.     “‘Confidential consumer information’ means personally identifiable
 6 financial information (1) that a consumer provides to a financial institution to obtain a product 7 or service from the financial institution, (2) about a consumer resulting from any transaction 8 involving a product or service between the financial institution and a consumer, or (3) that the 9 financial institution otherwise obtains about a consumer in connection with providing a product
 10 or service to that consumer.” Alameda County Ordinance § 3.70.020(a). “[P]ersonally 11 identifiable financial information” includes “the fact that a consumer is a customer of a financial 12 institution or has obtained a financial product or service from a financial institution.” Id.

13           37.     “A financial institution located in the unincorporated area of Alameda
 14 County that proposes to share a consumer’s confidential consumer information shall provide 15 written or electronic notices and consent acknowledgements . . . as separate documents . . . .
 16 [that] shall include at least the following: (a) The specific types of information that would be 17 disclosed or shared, (b) The general circumstances under which the information would be 18 disclosed or shared, (c) The specific types of persons or businesses that would receive the 19 information, and (d) The specific proposed types of uses for the information.” Alameda County 20 Ordinance § 3.70.040(b) & (c). The notice required by the Ordinance is more specific than the 21 notice required by the FCRA and GLBA.

22           38.     The Ordinance in certain circumstances exempts licensed insurance
 23 producers and licensed securities broker-dealers from its notice and consent requirements.
 24 Alameda County Ordinance § 3.70.060. Plaintiff Banks are not so licensed and accordingly 25 cannot avail themselves of this exception.

26           39.     The Ordinance exempts the release of “confidential consumer 27 information . . . to provide information to insurance rate advisory organizations” from its notice
 28 and consent requirements. Alameda County Ordinance § 3.70.050(b)(4). Plaintiff Insurance

1 Affiliates are not “insurance rate advisory organizations” and accordingly cannot avail
2 themselves of this exception.

3 40. A financial institution that discloses confidential consumer information in 4 violation of the Ordinance is subject to an administrative penalty up to $250,000 per violation.
5 Alameda County Ordinance § 3.70.070.

6 The Effect Of The Ordinance

7 41. The effect of the Ordinance on financial institutions would be to impair,
8 or entirely prevent, information sharing with both corporate affiliates and nonaffiliated third
9 joint-marketing partners as otherwise authorized by applicable federal law. The Ordinance
10 prevents the Banks from sharing customer information with affiliates for 45 days each year.
11 Thereafter, they may do so, only if a customer does not opt out. By contrast, under the FCRA, 12 information that the institution obtains from its own experience with a consumer regarding that 13 individual’s “credit worthiness, credit standing, credit capacity, character, general reputation, 14 personal characteristics, or mode of living,” 15 U.S.C. § 1681m(b)(1), can be shared without 15 restriction among affiliates, as can other information, such as a customer’s name, which does 16 not relate to creditworthiness. 15 U.S.C. § 1681a(d)(2).

17 42. Plaintiffs carry on their authorized activities in interstate commerce, as 18 part of the nationwide banking, currency and credit system established by the NBA, 12 U.S.C.
19 § 21 et seq. At significant costs, the Bank of America Plaintiffs and the Wells Fargo Plaintiffs 20 have each established and maintain for their respective organizations a centralized database and 21 processing system used by the Plaintiff Banks and their subsidiaries and affiliates to carry on 22 their operations in the most efficient way possible. These centralized systems and databases are 23 necessary to manage customer accounts, allow the use of ATMs, and provide all of the functions
24 necessary in modern banking. They were set up consistent with the requirements of the FCRA
25 and are used by the Bank of America and Wells Fargo Plaintiffs, respectively, to provide 26 customer service as well as to market additional products and services to their respective 27 customers. These systems cannot effectively be redesigned for use for only the specific 28 purposes allowed by the Ordinance.

1           43. Because the Ordinance forbids the Banks from denying products and 2 services to customers who opt out, the Banks would have to establish a separate data processing
3 system to accommodate residents of unincorporated Alameda County who may choose later to 4 opt out. Moreover, the Banks must continue to allow those customers to make deposits, cash
5 checks, use ATMs and otherwise continue to be treated as traditional bank customers of Bank of 6 America or Wells Fargo throughout California and the other states where Bank of America has 7 branches or Wells Fargo has affiliate banks. The Banks have never had to so segregate their 8 data processing systems, but they estimate the cost of doing so would be millions of dollars
9 each. In any event, whether or not any given customer later opts out, the Ordinance requires 10 that the Banks treat these customers as if they have opted out during the 45-day sharing ban.

11           44. The costs of extracting Alameda County bank deposit customers from the 12 existing shared database and processing systems would be significant. These customers must 13 have all of the information associated with their deposit or loan accounts taken out of the shared 14 system and put into a segregated system for use only by the Bank so as not to be available to 15 that Bank's affiliates. However, the customers who also have credit cards from the Bank's 16 credit card affiliate or insurance from the insurance affiliate would continue to have those 17 accounts handled by the common database and processing system because neither the Credit
18 Card Banks nor the Insurance Affiliates are located within unincorporated Alameda County.
19 Thus, extraction of an Alameda County resident from the common database only for purposes of 20 its bank account management requires complex programming. By the same token, there would 21 be complexities and significant expense in returning an Alameda County customer to the shared 22 database and processing system at the expiration of the 45-day period, if the customer does not 23 opt out of sharing. While none of the Plaintiffs have confronted a regulatory regime like the one 24 established by the Ordinance, both believe that the most cost-effective way of complying with 25 the Ordinance would be to leave all Alameda County customers in a segregated database or 26 processing system and not share any of their banking information with affiliates or third parties.
27 While the Banks, as a matter of policy, honor depositors' decisions to not receive solicitations 28 from affiliates and have developed protocols within their databases and processing systems to

1 implement this policy, they have no such protocols to prevent the customer information sharing
2 in the manner prescribed by the Ordinance. Accordingly, while nominally an opt-out system, in 3 fact the Alameda Ordinance will require the Banks, to the extent that they can identify Alameda
4 County residents, to remove those customers from their shared database and processing systems.

5           45. The Alameda Ordinance applies only to consumers residing in 6 unincorporated Alameda County. Accordingly, it would require the Banks to determine exactly
7 where their customers reside – for example in Oakland which is not part of unincorporated
8 Alameda County, or in other locations which are. The Banks cannot easily separate out 9 customers based on zip-codes or the like, because such easily defined markers cross the 10 boundary between incorporated and unincorporated parts of the County.

11           46. Therefore, if it becomes effective, the Ordinance would force the Banks 12 either to: (1) close their branches in unincorporated Alameda County, and thereby escape the 13 limitations of the Ordinance; or (2) attempt to identify customers governed by the Ordinance
14 and set up a separate database and processing system at great expense for those customers.
15 Either of these alternatives will prevent or significantly interfere with the Banks' own operations 16 and with their federal rights to operate with subsidiaries and affiliates.

17           47. The Alameda Ordinance will also affect the Credit Card Banks and 18 WFHMI. If the Ordinance becomes effective, the ability of the Credit Card Banks and WFHMI,
19 which are not even located in unincorporated Alameda County, to market and sell their own
20 products and services to customers and potential customers would be curtailed or prevented 21 because they could not continue to use Plaintiff Banks' customer information systems and 22 databases to identify these customers.

23           48. Similarly, the effect of the Ordinance on the Insurance Affiliates would 24 be significant. Presently, the Insurance Affiliates, which also are not located in unincorporated
25 Alameda County, market and sell almost entirely to the existing customer base of Plaintiff 26 Banks and their affiliates. By preventing the Insurance Affiliates from accessing the data in the 27 shared systems for covered customers, the Insurance Affiliates' sales and marketing operations 28 would be curtailed.

49. The Ordinance would impair BAI's marketing activities, for example by preventing BAI from using its parent Bank's "experience information" with its customers in BAI's cross-marketing campaigns. Moreover, BAI being located in Alameda County would no longer be able to use the shared database and processing system to serve its Alameda customers for the same reason that its affiliated Bank cannot use that system. Accordingly, like the Bank, BAI would have to establish at great cost a segregated system to manage the accounts of those customers. Finally, the Ordinance would interfere with BAI's use of dual-employees, those who are employed both as bankers at Bank of America, while also operating as BAI sales employees.

50. The effect of the Ordinance would also be to prevent or interfere significantly with the ability of Wells Fargo Bank Nevada and WFII to engage in the sale, solicitation, and crossmarketing of insurance and certain other products and services through joint agreements authorized by 15 U.S.C. § 6802(b)(2).

51. The Ordinance's notice requirements would also cause further substantial injury to Plaintiff Banks. The Banks would have to create separate notices to comply with the Ordinance, which would have to be sent to customers as a separate stand-alone document. Alameda County Ordinance § 3.70.040(b). The Banks could not integrate this notice, or their standard annual notices required under federal law, with those of their affiliates as they now do.

52. A case or controversy exists between the parties requiring resolution by this Court.

Claims for Relief

Count I – Declaratory and Injunctive Relief:

FCRA Preemption of the Ordinance

53. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 to 52 of this Complaint as though fully set forth herein.

54. The FCRA expressly allows financial institutions to share with affiliates, without restriction, information that they obtain from their own transactions with the consumer, including information regarding the consumer's "credit worthiness, credit standing, credit capacity, character, general reputation, personal characteristics, or mode of living.” 15 U.S.C. § 1681m(b)(1). The FCRA also expressly allows such institutions to share other information bearing on creditworthiness or relating to the aforementioned consumer characteristics – so called “non-experience information” – with their affiliates. Id. § 1681a(d)(2). The FCRA imposes no restrictions on the sharing of information not bearing on creditworthiness or related to the other listed consumer characteristics.

55. The FCRA provides that “[n]o requirement or prohibition may be imposed under the laws of any State . . . with respect to the exchange of information among persons affiliated by common ownership or common corporate control . . .,” except for a specified Vermont statute in effect on September 30, 1996. 15 U.S.C. § 1681t(b)(2). This prohibition applies to local laws enacted before January 1, 2004. Id. § 1681t(d).

56. The Ordinance imposes “requirement[s] and prohibition[s] . . . with respect to the exchange of information among persons affiliated by common ownership or common corporate control” by, inter alia, providing for the requirement of a separate notice, a 45 day prevention on the sharing of any customer information with affiliates, and the requirement of an “opt out” thereafter before Plaintiff Banks can share information with affiliated entities.

57. The Ordinance accordingly is expressly preempted by 15 U.S.C. § 1681t(b)(2), and is unconstitutional under Article VI of the United States Constitution.

Count II – Declaratory and Injunctive Relief:

National Bank Act Preemption of the Ordinance

58. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 to 52 of this Complaint as though fully set forth herein.

59. Plaintiff have the authority under the National Bank Act “to exercise . . . all such incidental powers as shall be necessary to carry on the business of banking.” 12 U.S.C. § 24(Seventh). National banks’ authorized powers under § 24(Seventh) include the power to advertise and market their authorized services.

1           60. OCC regulations implementing the National Bank Act provide that “[a]
2 national bank may conduct in an operating subsidiary activities [including marketing activities]
3 that are permissible for a national bank to engage in directly either as part of, or incidental to,
4 the business of banking.” 12 C.F.R. § 5.34(e). Further, the OCC has provided by regulation
5 that “[u]nless otherwise provided by Federal law or OCC regulation, State laws apply to 6 national bank operating subsidiaries to the same extent that those laws apply to the parent
7 national bank.” 12 C.F.R. § 7.4006. The OCC’s regulations also permit national banks to own 8 financial subsidiaries that are authorized to provide products and services that national banks are 9 authorized to provide, but also other related products and services that national banks cannot 10 provide. 12 C.F.R. § 5.39.

11           61. The Ordinance prevents national banks from sharing confidential 12 consumer information with all subsidiaries and affiliates for 45 days each year, and thereafter if 13 a customer “opts out” of such sharing. Alameda County Ordinance § 3.70.040(f). As a 14 practical matter, this on-again/off-again regime would result in a removal of all Alameda
15 County residents from the database and processing systems that the Banks’ subsidiaries or 16 affiliates now use to market their own as well as the Banks’ products and services. The 17 Ordinance thus prevents or substantially interferes with the Banks’ federally authorized power 18 to advertise and market their own products to their own customers through their subsidiaries and 19 affiliates, for example the marketing of Plaintiff Banks’ debit cards through the Credit Card
20 Banks, or mortgages through an operating subsidiary. Accordingly, the Ordinance conflicts
21 with national banks’ federally authorized powers under 12 U.S.C. § 24(Seventh).

22           62. The Alameda Ordinance has additional impacts on Wells Fargo. Unlike 23 Bank of America, which operates its branches throughout the United States as part of a single 24 corporate entity, Wells Fargo Banks are separately incorporated national banks for each of the 25 states in which Wells Fargo has branches. In some situations, one Wells Fargo Bank provides a 26 service or product for all of the affiliated Wells Fargo Banks. Thus, Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.
27 provides the home equity loan products and Wells Fargo Bank South Dakota, N.A. provides the 28 student loan products for all Wells Fargo customers. The Ordinance would prevent Wells Fargo

1 from using its common customer information sharing systems to provide integrated, seamless
2 service to customers throughout the United States. For example, Wells Fargo Nevada could not
3 view the experience information in the Wells Fargo shared system if an Alameda customer
4 applied for a loan at a Nevada branch, or came to the branch to cash a Wells Fargo check. In 5 these circumstances, the Alameda customer would, therefore, be treated like Wells Fargo Bank
6 Nevada as though he or she were not a Wells Fargo customer at all.

7           63. The Ordinance will also seriously impair Plaintiff Banks' federally
8 authorized authority to engage in deposit taking and lending operations under 12 U.S.C.
9 § 24(Seventh). For example, Bank of America for many years has used a subsidiary, Bank of 10 America Technology and Operations, Inc. ("BATO"), to handle all data processing and records
11 storage for its accountholders. Wells Fargo similarly uses a single customer information system
12 (maintained by Wells Fargo Services Co. ("WFSC")) that contains all of its experience
13 information about its customers which is available to affiliated Wells Fargo Banks and other
14 consumer financial affiliates. Because this experience information about particular customers
15 cannot be separated by the Bank so that other affiliates receive it only for specific account
16 maintenance purposes, the Banks would be confronted with millions of dollars of costs to set up
17 segregated systems for all of their Alameda customer contact and account functioning. Wells
18 Fargo Bank faces greater problems regarding its utilization of WFSC since it is also used by all 19 affiliated national banks to provide core banking services to Alameda customers. As such, the 20 Ordinance prevents or significantly interferes with the exercise of national banks' powers under 21 12 U.S.C. § 24(Seventh).

22           64. The Ordinance would also prevent or significantly interfere with Plaintiff
23 Banks' exercising their powers under 12 U.S.C. § 24(Seventh) and OCC regulations, 12 C.F.R.
24 §§ 5.34, 5.39 & 7.4006, to offer their customers and potential customers products and services
25 indirectly through their subsidiaries and affiliates. For example, the Ordinance would prevent 26 the Credit Card Banks, as national banks, from using the shared database and processing
27 systems to obtain information needed to market and sell the Credit Card Banks' credit card and 28 the Banks' own debit card that is marketed by the Credit Card Banks. Similarly, WFHMI, an operating subsidiary of Wells Fargo Bank, could not use the Wells Fargo Bank system to market and sell WFHMI's products to covered Wells Fargo Bank customers, or to offer mortgage rate discounts to these Wells Fargo Bank customers who maintain specified asset balances with the Wells Fargo franchise. In this regard, the Ordinance also conflicts with national banks' powers under 12 C.F.R. §§ 5.34, 5.39 & 7.4006 and other OCC regulations to organize and operate in the corporate and organizational forms that national banks find most convenient and useful.

65. The Ordinance would also impair the ability of Wells Fargo Bank Nevada, as a national bank, to sell, solicit and crossmarket insurance and certain other products and services to the customers of Wells Fargo Bank through "joint agreements" with other financial institutions, as they now do pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 6802(b)(2). By subjecting such joint agreements to a customer "opt in," the Ordinance would prevent or significantly interfere with the ability of national banks, like Plaintiff Wells Fargo Bank Nevada to advertise and market to customers and potential customers through such agreements.

66. The Ordinance, insofar as it applies to Plaintiffs, as national banks and their operating subsidiaries, is therefore preempted under Article VI of the United States Constitution by the National Bank Act, 12 U.S.C. § 24(Seventh), as it is implemented by the OCC's regulations.

Count III – Declaratory and Injunctive Relief:

GLBA Insurance Provision Preemption of the Ordinance

67. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 to 52 of this Complaint as though fully set forth herein.

68. Section 104(d)(2)(A) of GLBA provides that "[i]n accordance with the legal standards for preemption set forth in the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Barnett Bank of Marion County, N.A. v. Nelson, 517 U.S. 25 (1996), no State may, by statute, regulation, order, interpretation, or other action, prevent or significantly interfere with the ability of a depository institution, or an affiliate thereof, to engage, directly or indirectly, either by itself or in conjunction with an affiliate or any other person, in any insurance sales, solicitation, or crossmarketing activity." 15 U.S.C. § 6701(d)(2)(A).

69. The Banks are depository institutions within the meaning of 15 U.S.C. § 6701(d)(2)(A). They are affiliated with their Insurance Affiliates and regularly share their customer names and addresses with their Insurance Affiliates in order to facilitate the sale, solicitation, and crossmarketing of insurance by their Insurance Affiliates.

70. The Ordinance prevents or significantly interferes with the ability of Plaintiff Banks to share such information and the ability of their Insurance Affiliates to engage in such insurance sales, solicitation, and crossmarketing activities.

71. The Ordinance's opt-in requirement also prevents or significantly interferes with the ability of WFII and Wells Fargo Bank Nevada to sell, solicit, and crossmarket insurance through joint agreements, as authorized by 15 U.S.C. § 6802(b)(2).

72. The Ordinance accordingly is preempted under Article VI of the United States Constitution by 15 U.S.C. § 6701(d)(2)(A).

Count IV – Declaratory and Injunctive Relief:

Preemption of Local Enforcement of the Ordinance

73. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 to 52 of this Complaint as though fully set forth herein.

74. The Ordinance provides for administrative enforcement by local officials.

75. Under the NBA, 12 U.S.C. § 484, and other provisions of the federal banking laws and OCC regulations, the OCC has exclusive regulatory and enforcement authority over Plaintiff Banks, and other national banks, as well as national banks' subsidiaries like BAI with regard to their sharing of customer information with affiliates and nonaffiliated third parties as well as with regard to the customer information sharing notices of national banks.

76. The enforcement of the Ordinance is preempted under Article VI of the United States Constitution, insofar as the Ordinance applies to national banks such as Plaintiff Banks and their subsidiaries, by 12 U.S.C. § 484 and other provisions of the federal banking laws and applicable OCC implementing regulations, because the Ordinance conflicts with the OCC's exclusive enforcement authority over national banks with regard to their authorized products and services.

Count V – Attorneys' Fees:

Claim Under 42 U.S.C. § 1983

77. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 to 52 of this Complaint as though fully set forth herein.

78. Plaintiffs are granted federal rights under the FCRA, NBA, GLBA, and Article VI of the United States Constitution to share their customer information among affiliated corporations and nonaffiliated third parties free of state requirements, restrictions, and prohibitions like those imposed by the Ordinance.

79. By adopting, implementing and enforcing the Ordinance, Defendants are thus depriving Plaintiffs of their federal rights under the FCRA, NBA, GLBA, and Article VI of the United States Constitution.

80. Defendants are "persons" under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 who have acted under color of state law to deprive Plaintiffs of rights secured by the federal Constitution and laws.

81. Plaintiffs have incurred attorneys' fees in pursuance of their claims that are recoverable from Defendants under 42 U.S.C. § 1988.

Prayer for Relief

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray that this Court:

A. Enter a judgment declaring that the Alameda County Ordinance Number 2003-28 (enacted Nov. 12, 2002) is null and void and unenforceable, insofar as it applies to Plaintiffs, as national banks, or national bank subsidiaries and/or affiliates, because it is preempted under Article VI of the United States Constitution as being (i) expressly preempted by the Fair Credit Reporting Act, and section 104 of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, Pub. L. No. 106-102, 113 Stat. 1338 (Nov. 12, 1999); and (ii) in conflict with the National Bank Act and implementing OCC regulations;

B. Enter a permanent injunction, Plaintiffs having no adequate remedy at law and suffering irreparable injury as a result of this unconstitutional local Ordinance, ordering

Defendants to suspend the Ordinance, and otherwise enjoining Defendants, as well as any other person acting in the name of Alameda County, or of the People of the State of California, from allowing the Ordinance to become effective, or enforcing or taking any action to enforce the Ordinance;

C. Should Plaintiffs so move, enter a preliminary injunction pending final resolution of this action, Plaintiffs having no adequate remedy at law and suffering irreparable injury as a result of this unconstitutional local Ordinance, ordering Defendants to suspend the Ordinance, and enjoining Defendants, as well as any other person acting in the name of Alameda County, or of the People of the State of California, from enforcing or taking any action to enforce the Ordinance, pending further order of this Court;

D. Award Plaintiffs their reasonable attorneys' fees pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1988; and

E. Grant Plaintiffs such other and further relief, including costs, as the Court may deem just and proper.

ORDINANCE NO. 2003-28

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS, COUNTY OF ALAMEDA, STATE OF CALIFORNIA

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE DISCLOSURE OF CONFIDENTIAL
CONSUMER INFORMATION BY FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda, State of California, ORDAINS, as follows:

SECTION 1: Chapter 3.70, entitled "Disclosure of Confidential Consumer Information by Financial Institutions", and consisting of Sections 3.70.010 to 3.70.090, of Title 3 of the Alameda County Ordinance Code is hereby added as follows:

3.70.010 Purpose and Intent

- (a) It is the purpose and intent of the Board of Supervisors that the operation of financial institutions as defined in this ordinance should be regulated so as to provide customers of financial institutions who are Alameda County residents or a business entity with its principal place of business in the unincorporated area of Alameda County notice and meaningful choice about how their confidential consumer information is shared or sold by their financial institutions and to prohibit the disclosure of confidential consumer information without first securing the consumer's consent.
- (b) It is the intent of the Board of Supervisors in enacting this ordinance to afford Alameda County residents and businesses greater financial privacy protection than those provided in Public Law 106-102, the federal Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, and that this ordinance be interpreted to be consistent with that purpose.

Financial service includes a financial institution's evaluation or brokerage of information that the financial institution collects in connection with a request or an application from a consumer for financial product or service.

3.70.030 Non-Disclosure of Confidential Consumer Information

- (a) A financial institution located in the unincorporated area of Alameda County shall not disclose to, or share a consumer's confidential consumer information with, any nonaffiliated third party unless the financial institution has provided written notice to the consumer to whom the confidential consumer information relates and unless the financial institution has obtained a consent acknowledgment signed by the consumer that authorizes the financial institution to disclose or share the confidential consumer information. A financial institution shall not deny a consumer a financial product or a financial service because the consumer has not provided the signed consent
